

Arid Lands Study Abroad and Internship Opportunity in Israel

The Arava Institute for Environmental Studies \(AIES\) offers the only academic program in the Middle East for students of all nationalities, including Israelis, Palestinians, and Jordanians, to study and live together in a unique desert environment. When you study abroad at Arava, you not only learn about environmental issues from leading professors but also develop deep connections with classmates and roommates who come from different cultural and religious backgrounds. Arava alumni have gone on to work in key positions that utilize their professional skills in environmental sustainability and conflict resolution. Arava alumni work for the Environmental Protection Agency, work in education and management in nonprofit environmental organizations, found social and technological entrepreneurship start-ups, and more.

The Chronicle of Higher Education has a recent article on the Arava Institute.

For more information on Arava, contact Sarah Rubin at Sarah@friendsofarava.org.

For more information on practical aspects of study abroad and for other study abroad opportunities, contact the Penn State Office of Global Programs (<http://gpglobalea.gp.psu.edu/>).